Tremblant Gets Level 4 Rating in ECORESPONSIBLE Program – A First for Québec!

Tremblant is the first company in Québec, and the first-ever ski resort, to get an ECORESPONSIBLE Program level 4 rating from Conseil des Industries Durables (CID) for meeting all criteria set and overseen by Ecocert Canada. Achieving the highest certification just five years after joining the CID program marks a major milestone that reflects Mont-Tremblant Resort's ongoing work and shows its commitment to sustainable development. For its assessment, Ecocert did a comprehensive audit of the four sustainable development spheres: governance, economic, social, and environmental. To achieve this level, a company must also demonstrate community and industry leadership.
